

2021 LED Workshop - April 30, 2021

Closing Remarks

Video begins at 05:54:05

Keith Bailey: So please thank me - please join me in thanking all of our speakers for a very informative workshop. Again if we were together we would have a round of applause for everyone so thank you.

And also thank you to all the participants for choosing to spend your time with us today and for your interest in the LEHD suite of data. We are especially grateful for our LMI partners continued participation in and support of the LED partnership. I am humbled by the efforts of my predecessors, the current LEHD research team and our Census colleagues in the economic directorate that have produced today's LEHD.

There are more opportunities on the horizon including potential evaluation of long term economic outcomes of unemployment insurance claimants and employment earnings outcomes for formally incarcerated persons. We look forward to additional opportunities for increased collaboration and expansion of LEHD products and applications.

This does conclude our formal workshop program. Please consider joining members of the LEHD research team at an informal virtual reception beginning at 4:45 pm Eastern Time. Note that the virtual reception uses a different WebEx login which I will post momentarily in the chat.

All phone lines will be unmuted in the reception so please be courteous to others. The chat will also be open to all attendees in the reception. Thank you and may you enjoy the remainder of your day.
